White Lake nutrient study to get $250,000 in DNR budget

LANSING – The Department of Natural Resources budget approved on Tuesday by the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Natural Resources includes funding to improve the water quality in White Lake, announced Sen. Gerald Van Woerkom, R-Norton Shores.

“This funding is a necessity if we want a clean and usable lake for the community,” Van Woerkom said. “The Water Quality Monitoring Grant will allow for a much needed cleanup of the lake and also will allow for the community to enjoy it.”

The lake will benefit from a $250,000 Water Quality Monitoring Grant for water quality improvements through the White Lake Nutrient Study Program. The study examines the balance of nutrients in and around White Lake.

The DNR budget now goes before the full Senate Appropriations Committee.
